

Milton's Aftermath

A Special Service Memo

At Deans, we take protecting our community seriously—whether it's from destructive termites or Florida's unpredictable weather. Hurricane Milton has affected us all, and we hope you and your family are safe, and with minimal damage to your property.

In the days leading up to the storm, we gave our employees paid time off to prepare their homes and families. Despite these efforts, many of our team members have suffered damage to their homes, and some are still without power as they recover.

We're happy to have prioritized their safety, and we thought it best to make you aware of these operational challenges Hurricane Milton has caused.

As you can imagine, there may be slight delays in scheduled services. To catch up, our Route Managers are working weekends and will be back on schedule soon, provided the weather continues to cooperate. Rest assured we're doing everything possible to ensure you receive the same high-quality service you expect from Deans.

Fortunately, your lawn and pest treatments remain effective despite the storm. Our products are designed to be watered in, and any areas in need of extra attention will be targeted with your next treatment. Regarding your termite protection, our Sentricon® Termite System is built to withstand severe weather and will continue protecting your home, even after intense rains.

Thank you for your patience and support. Stay safe, and we look forward to serving you and ensuring your home remains protected. For further updates during storms and how they may affect your service, be sure to follow us on Facebook and Instagram.
